Partner with a Principal Program Receives its First Sponsor!

We're happy to share that Generation Schools Network secured its first Partner with a Principal sponsor, Richard & Judy Tumlinson from Centennial, CO. The couple have long been involved in and passionate about education including bringing BEST Robotics to Colorado. This effort is a new GSN program for principals interested in gaining opportunities for thought partnership from an experienced principal with success running high performing schools and/or a business leader in the community to sharpen their collective leadership skills. Richard & Judy Tumlinson are sponsoring Elizabeth Jameson, high school principal at Aguilar Schools to participate in the program. We are so appreciative of their support!

If you would like to support this effort, we are still seeking sponsors to provide scholarships for a principal on our waiting list of additional candidates who expressed interest this year. To learn more about sponsorships, visit the GSN website or contact Ali Lauge at alauge@generationschools.org. We are so appreciative of support for these principals. Also, if you are a principal interested in learning more about the program, and possibly signing up to receive additional thought partnership or be a thought partner, visit the GSN website or fill out the application.

Introducing New GSN Social Emotional Learning Units! Exploring Culture, Identity, and Social Justice units are now available for elementary, middle and high school!

To prepare today's students for healthy participation in a multicultural world, this unit aims to challenge perceptions, raise awareness, and foster cross-cultural competencies. Specifically, students, faculty, staff, and the school community will explore the importance of culture and identity, learn about race- and ethnicity-based privilege, and to appreciate diversity and commonality across the human experience. The unit will culminate in a project that incorporates the skills and perspectives learned throughout the lessons. To download these units for free, please visit our online store and enter code: "Culture2020!" at checkout!

GSN Selected as Non-Profit Partner for Impact Denver Community Project

Generation Schools Network was selected to be a community partner for Impact Denver 2020's Fall Cohort, as part of the Denver Metro Chamber Leadership Foundation. GSN

submitted a proposal idea to Impact Denver, and was selected to be one of their community partners to receive help on a specific project with a group of up-and-coming professionals from a variety of industries. The Impact Denver team, working with GSN, will help provide guidance, thought partnership, and support with finishing out the first phase of the College and Career Pathways Project, and develop a comprehensive sustainability and marketing plan alongside it with a crowdsourcing focus to support expanded college/career readiness opportunities for students state-wide. GSN values the opportunity to partner with organizations like Impact Denver to provide in-kind and skills-based volunteer support. To learn more about these types of projects, please contact Ali Lauge, GSN Sr. Director of Partnerships at alauge@generationschools.org.
